Nearly 1,000 Idle Shown in Census

Andover Shows 466 Unemployed, 293 Partly—Vale Has 102 Out of Work

There are 920 unemployed, partly employed, and W.P.A. or C.C.C. workers in Andover, the recently-conducted census here shows.

In Andover, exclusive of Ballardvale where a separate census was taken because it is a separate postal district, there were 805 cards returned. Of these 466 were unemployed, 293 partly employed, seven C.C.C. workers and 39 W.P.A. workers.

Ballardvale has more than its share of unemployment. A total of 102 cards were returned, and there were 11 W.P.A. workers and two National Youth administration workers.

The census reflects statistically what has been known by local welfare officials for the past six weeks or so. Unemployment has been definitely on the increase, with the mills having only a very small staff and they on part time. The demand for aid has been very heavy at the town house, and there are frequent calls for work at the B.P.W. office. Since it is near the end of the year, the B.P.W. funds are very low.

The cards were sent to Washington Wednesday.

To Give Lecture Tuesday Evening

George Sokolsky is one of the most profound thinkers now discussing current events. Fourteen years residence in Russia, China, and Japan have given him an insight into the far eastern situation which is rivaled by that of no other commentator. An intimate knowledge of every section of the United States enables him to present the true economic and political position of our country in relation to the rest of the world. Mr. Sokolsky does not pull his punches, as those who follow his column in the New York Herald Tribune, and his articles in many other publications, know. He will speak at Phillips academy on Tuesday evening, November 30th, at 8.15, in George Washington hall. His subject will include the far east, our present labor problems, and the political development which we are facing. There will be no charge for admission and the public is cordially invited to be present.

To Give Reception for New Rector

The vestry and parish of Christ church will give a reception for the Rev. and Mrs. Albert C. Morris in the parish house Sunday, November 28th, from four to six o'clock. Members of the parish are cordially invited.

Legion Auxiliary Entertains Vets

The Andover Legion auxiliary journeyed to the Danvers state hospital on Sunday to entertain the veterans there. Songs were sung by George Levi and Barbara Terry, and Barbara Kelleher sang and danced.

Each of the 69 disabled veterans and the eleven hospitalized auxiliary members was presented with a bag containing candy, oranges, and cookies, with cigarettes for the men.

Mrs. George T. Cilley was in charge.

Plan to Give Girl Scout Training Course

A short Girl Scout training course for adults will be given in Andover during the month of December, beginning November 30th. The course will be conducted by Miss Natalie Stansfield, director of the Greater Lawrence Girl Scouts. For information call 950.

Smith Professor to Address Club

Professor William Orton of Smith college will be the speaker at the November club meeting on Monday afternoon, November 29th. Professor Orton is known to many through his books, the latest of them, an autobiographical novel entitled, "The Last Romantic," having just been published. Professor Orton served in the war and was three years in the British Ministry of Labor before coming to this country in 1922. He is a keen musician. He describes himself as "an old-fashioned liberal, a congenial free lance, and an incorrigible optimist." Miss Mary Ellen Chase who delighted the club last spring is a colleague of Professor Orton's at Smith and recommends him so enthusiastically as a speaker that a particularly pleasing afternoon is assured.

British Veterans Elect Officers

James Mitchell was elected commander of the British War Veterans at the annual meeting held last Sunday at the Square and Compass club. In addition to the election, plans were discussed for a Christmas party for the children of members to take place on Sunday, December 19, and also for a New Year's eve dance.

Other officers elected were: first vice-commander, Alex Auchterlonie; second vice-commander, John Wynton; adjutant, George Mitchell; finance officer, Lindsay Kinnear; chaplain, James Kew; drill instructor, David Wallace; color sergeant, George Addison; sergeant-at-arms, Robert Winters; trustee for three years, James Batty.

Announce Change in Time of Lecture

The attention of all who are interested in Mrs. Frank Mansfield Taylor's lectures on "History in the Making" is called to the fact that hereafter the lectures will begin at 9.45 rather than at ten o'clock. The added time will give greater opportunity for discussion and questions.

The third lecture of the series takes place on Wednesday morning, December 1. Season tickets are still available and will be $3.00 for the remaining six lectures. Tickets for the single lectures are 75 cents each.

Phone Girls to Hold Bakery Sale

The operators at the local telephone exchange will hold their annual bakery sale on Saturday, December 4, in order to provide funds for the annual Christmas tree party which the girls hold each year for a number of needy children. The sale will last all day and will be held in the vacant store in the Musgrove building.

The committee: Ruth Watson, chairman; Gertrude White and Marilyn Janes.

State Officials to Inspect Crossing

Public Utilities Commissioner to Check on Site of Joseph Dole's Death

The State Public Utilities commission decided on Wednesday afternoon to come to Andover in the very near future to examine the unprotected Lowell Junction crossing where John Joseph Dole met his death last Friday evening. Railroad and town officials will take part in the examination, which will include the timing of express trains, the volume of locomotive whistles, the topography of the approaches and the amount of traffic. No definite date has been set for the inspection. A number of Andover residents attended the hearing in Boston on Wednesday afternoon, including Selectmen Howell F. Shepard, Roy E. Hardy and J. Everett Collins; Chief of Police George A. Dane; and town clerk George H. Winslow. Others present included State Senator Frank D. Babcock and representatives Thomas J. Lane, Louis Scanlon and James P. Donnelly.

The entire correspondence between Chairman Shepard and the railroad was submitted to show that the railroad on September 23 had agreed to install a gong promptly at the crossing. Attorney John B. Sawyer, railroad counsel, stated that after the road agreed to put in the gong, technical difficulties were discovered which made it impossible to make the installation immediately. The "Y" at Lowell junction where the trains change from the Portland division to head for Fitchburg, etc., means a more extensive gong lay-out than the railroad had contemplated, costing in the neighborhood of $3000.

Chairman Shepard presented the report of a check-up he had made in the past few days. An express, the same one that killed Dole, arrives at the crossing 11 and a half seconds after it starts whistling, he said, and this period of time is not sufficient for slow-moving trucks to get off the tracks. In a twelve-hour day, he said, 152 pleasure cars, 62 trucks and 30 pedestrians use the crossing.

The commission will be present when the same train that killed Dole passes by.

Large Crowd at Firemen's Ball

Over 500 were present Wednesday evening at the 66th annual firemen's ball held in the town hall. Following an hour's entertainment program, general dancing continued until midnight.

The programme included the following performers: Claude and Marion, Anne McCormack, Wee Willie Dee Co., Robert Sisters, and Whirlwind Skaters.

The ball committee: Alexander MacKenzie, Chairman; Robert Jackson, C. Edward Buchan, James Williams, Henry Pomeroy.

Robert Jackson was floor director and James Williams assistant.

Self-Exclusion

At a recent meeting the school committee decided to allow the Adventurers the use of the school auditorium on Tuesday night instead of Wednesday night so that the stage would not be tied up too long. The Adventurers accepted the decision with good grace and made their plans for the first production, setting the date for December 7th, a Tuesday night.

The school board likes to see the Adventurers' plays, but their decision to move the night up to Tuesday means that perhaps one group in town will not be able to see the play. For in a little gray book printed by the school committee there's an apparently innocuous little rule that says in substance: "The school board shall meet on the first Tuesday every month except July and August."

The Old Tin Dipper

Those sissy football players down at Harvard are still using paper cups!

Over a decade ago some Punchard football players went down to see the Harvard team play at the Stadium, and they came back very much disappointed at the calibre of the Harvard boys, for they drank from paper cups! The feeling of disgust still continues.

Early in the season team physician Dr.

Harry C. East said to Coach Gene Lovely: "Gene, those boys should drink from paper cups." Gene went right out and bought paper cups, but would the Punchard boys drink from them? No, sir! The old tin dipper was much tougher, and so with a real team spirit they all drank together from the same dipper.

A few weeks ago Captain Lynch came down with a cold, and the boys played "Follow the Leader." A whole group of them also caught cold, and Dr. East shook his head: "That infernal tin dipper!"

Here's a suggestion, Gene. Next year step up before the squad and say, in real tough language so that the boys will like it better: "Now take dis Harvard team of last year. Dey met up against a guy named Frank wot wuz a real all-American if anybody wuz. He showed he wuz all-American dat day, but dat Harvard line held him. Now just tink it over, gang; if dat Harvard bunch had drunk from an old tin dipper, dey might all have caught cold, and Frank would have run wild. Remember, a cold's an awful sissy ting for a football player to have, ain't it? I ask yuh, ain't it?"

Significant Books Course Subject

Guidance in how to choose the most interesting and the most significant from among the new books of today, and an opportunity to discuss these books with others, will be given to those who enroll in the new course, "Significant Books of Today," in the Andover Evening Study Groups program this winter at Phillips academy. This course, coming on Wednesday evening at 8.40 commencing January 5, will be led each week by a different member of the academy faculty who will present a brief analysis of one or more outstanding recent books in the field of his special interest—literature, history, politics, international affairs, and science. The approach will be informal; free and open exchange of ideas will be encouraged.

No skill is more important today than skill in reading. Do you feel a need for further training in how to read with better understanding, with greater discrimination, with greater speed? Do you want a guide to trustworthy sources of information? Do you want practice, under guidance, in weighing the ideas which pour in upon you from the printed page? If so, you will want to take the Evening Study Groups course, "The Art of Reading," to be given by Mr. Basford and Mr. Blackmer of the academy's department of English on Tuesday evenings at 8.40, beginning January 4. This course will discuss techniques for comprehension, for analysis, for memory, for reading speed, for improving vocabulary, for detecting bias and propaganda,—in short, for better thinking as a result of better reading. Free use will be made of the modern newspaper and magazine for illustrative purposes. Rather than a series of lectures, this will be a laboratory or workshop course during which members of the group can work on a variety of problems designed to increase reading efficiency.

"Four Plays of Shakespeare," to be given by G. Grenville Benedict on Tuesday evenings at 8.40 beginning January 4, has been planned for the enjoyment of an increasing number of men and women who want to reread and learn to know well the work of the poet-dramatist. Plays read by the group will include "Macbeth," "Othello," "A Midsummer Night's Dream," and "Henry the Fourth, Part One." If you have been wanting to return in your reading to the best of the common heritage of English speaking people—to a writer who remains freshly exciting to each new age—do it in this course, under stimulating guidance, in the company of your friends.

Enrollment in these courses is made by means of the registration blank which is enclosed in the free booklet describing this year's courses, obtainable through Phillips academy or at one of the following centers of information: The Memorial Hall library, Andover; the Andover National Bank, the Stevens Memorial library, North Andover; the Lawrence public library, and the Lawrence Y.W.C.A.

Special rates are being offered as an inducement to early registration, as follows: If an individual student registers on or before December 12, his tuition charges will include a general registration fee of only $1.00 plus a fee of $1.00 for each course selected. (After December 12 this registration fee will be $2.00 plus the fee for each course.) If two or more members of an immediate family register on or before December 12, they may register under a single registration fee of only $2.00 plus a $1.00 charge for very course which each takes. (After December 12 the registration fee in this case will be $3.00 plus the fee for each course.) It is not necessary that family members take the same course. For the last three years certain courses of the Study Group program have been unable to accommodate all who wished to attend them. For this reason, early enrollment is advisable.

Briggs-Allen Pupils Give Food Baskets

Wednesday morning the Briggs-Allen school delivered Thanksgiving baskets to needy families in Andover. The pupils not only donated food and money, but assisted in assembling the articles. The variety and bounty of the baskets are proof of the children's enthusiastic spirit in sharing for Thanksgiving. They also gave food for distribution by the Red Cross.

The transition group has been making pictures and paper miniatures to illustrate the Thanksgiving story.

Mrs. Gordon Minor, former owner and manager of the Shaker Heights Book Shop in Cleveland, Ohio, displayed and reviewed new books for children last Friday as part of the celebration of Book Week. The Junior High Group had a book parade in costume. After the parade each one reviewed the book that she represented. Primary pupils brought their favorite books to school and made book-marks.

School closed Wednesday at twelve o'clock for the Thanksgiving recess.

Take Action after Fatal Crossing Accident

John Joseph Dole of River street, Ballardvale, was almost instantly killed last Friday evening when the huge trailer-truck which he was driving was struck by a Boston-Andover express at an unprotected crossing at Lowell Junction. The accident caused the local board of selectmen to take immediate action against the railroad, which had promised on September 23 to place a warning gong at the crossing.

The huge six-wheel trailer-truck was smashed to bits by the crash, with the trailer being left behind at the crossing, the motor being tossed onto a nearby hill, and the cab being picked up by the cow-catcher and carried three-quarters of a mile before the train could be pulled to a stop. The victim, who would have been 24 on Christmas Day, was tossed up onto the beam above the cow-catcher and he was found there when the train stopped. Fragments of the truck were found along the roadbed. The commuting traffic was tied up for over an hour.

Feared Derailing

The engineer reported that he was unable to see the truck since he was on the far side of the cab. The fireman had been shovelling coal, and returned to the window just in time to see the crash. He jumped back from the window and saved himself from almost certain death, for the trailer had swung around and crashed into the tender. The train was travelling the regularly scheduled seventy miles per hour past that point. The engineer immediately put on all the brakes, and both enginesmen prayed, as the train screeched on, that the wreckage was high enough up on the cow-catcher to clear the switch some 500 feet beyond. Had it caught in the switch the train would probably have been derailed and toppled into the river with its six carloads of passengers.

The engineer said that he had been blowing the whistle continuously, while an eyewitness, Philip Mason, following Dole's truck, stated that he could see the steam of the whistle but couldn't hear the blast until the train came to the crossing. Both were coming from the Watson-Park company where Dole had delivered a huge 20,000 gallon tank. Mason rushed back to the factory, and Selectman Shepard called the ambulance. Dole's father, Percy J. Dole, and several helpers had stayed behind at the plant.

Mason claims that Dole came to a complete stop, and then proceeded. The vision at that side is obscured by the Lowell Junction tower.

Survivors are his wife, the former Yvonne Beaulieu; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy J. Dole; his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Maguire of Lawrence; and five brothers, Kenneth, Thomas, Edward, William and Philip.

The funeral services were held on Monday from his parents' home, with a high mass of requiem being offered in St. Augustine's church by Rev. Henry B. Smith, O.S.A. Selections were rendered by Miss Annie G. Donovan and Miss Marie Ryan. Burial was in Spring Grove cemetery.

The bearers: James Dole, Thomas Dole, Alvin Dumont, James Corr, Arthur Radcliffe and Frank Shiebler.

Had Promised Protection

A hearing on this crossing had been set by the Department of Public Utilities for September 27, but was cancelled when Attorney John B. Sawyer for the railroad wrote the selectmen: "if the town will be satisfied with the installation of a warning gong and will withdraw its petition now pending before the Department of Public Utilities, we will agree to make such installation promptly." On September 24 Chairman Shepard wrote to Attorney Sawyer: "Your letter of September 23 outlining what you propose to do at the Railroad crossing at Lowell junction, is agreeable, providing that you do this work promptly and install a 12 inch diameter gong."

Saturday morning, nearly two months after the above exchange of letters, Selectman Shepard wrote again to Mr. Sawyer, to President Edward S. French, to the Department of Public Utilities and to Senator Frank D. Babcock. Representative Thomas J. Lane also went to the Department of Public Utilities.

Rebukes Counsel

In reminding Attorney Sawyer of his promise to install a gong promptly, Mr. Shepard said:

It does not seem to the writer that you have been very prompt in putting through this installation. I must say it would appear to me to be quite negligent on your part.

No doubt, it has been called to your attention of the serious and fatal accident which took place late yesterday afternoon, when train No. 141 crashed into a truck and semi-trailer. This was not only a serious accident for the driver of this vehicle and the owner of the equipment, but a more serious accident was only miraculously avoided—how train No. 141 with its hundreds of passengers cleared the cross-over beyond the grade crossing, probably will never be explained.

It however did, and we are thankful for its having done so, as the train would have jumped the rails, tossing cars down the embankment and into the river.

I have talked with an eye witness of this accident; your tower operator advises that the truck came completely to a stop and then proceeded; a man following this truck said that he slowed down at the crossing and then proceeded and this same party who was riding in an Austin Coupe saw the train and the exhaust of the whistle but could not hear same until the final blast at the crossing.

This, of course, would indicate to me that a gong is not going to be suitable protection at this point and I am therefore informing you that we will have to secure a new hearing before the Board of Public Utilities and go through to the extent of using all of our efforts to compel the railroad to properly protect this crossing.

The railroad certainly owes the Town of Andover an explanation for the railroad's neglect and failure to carry out agreement with the town.

To President French the chairman of the selectmen wrote as follows:

It would seem that some form of action should have been taken in the past two months after the railroad had agreed to protect this crossing, not only the people using the crossing but the lives of the people whom you are transporting.

The attitude of your railroad certainly indicates that the easiest way around is the best.

If all that could have happened had happened Friday afternoon when a fatal accident took place at this crossing, your railroad and this section would have been faced with a very serious disaster.

It is too bad that a fatal accident and a near disaster has to take place before this condition is brought to your attention.

As President of the Boston & Maine Railroad, we look to you to see to it that a re-occurrence and a near railroad wreck does not occur again, at least not at this point.

KEEP YOUR SEAT

To the Editor of the Townsman:

Dear Sir:

Andover has a fine new theatre—a theatre of which Mr. Resnik can be very proud. Every thought has been given for the comfort of the patrons.

One thing, however, remains to be done. Five minutes before the close of the evening performance one-fourth of the people present rise from their seats to make a leisurely stroll for the exits, in such a way as to prevent the remaining three-fourths from seeing the end of the feature.

A little thoughtfulness of others is all that is needed to remedy this annoying habit.

Yours truly,

A THEATREGOER

Work Six Hours to Rescue Horse

After the ball was over, the fire department had a busy night. At 12.20 they were called out by Box four to take a horse out of the cellar at a barn belonging to R. N. C. Barnes on Sunset Rock road. The horse had fallen through a scuttle. For six hours the department worked, finding it necessary to knock off a cement head before the horse could be taken out. At 3.15 Box 46 was sounded for a cellar fire at the home of John Avery, 36 Morton street.

ENTERTAIN AT BRIDGE

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Earnshaw of North Main street entertained at two tables of bridge on Wednesday evening. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Howard Stone of Methuen, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Marshall and Mr. and Mrs. Horace Culon of North Andover. A buffet supper was served.

GIVING THANKS

Many families in Andover had a happy Thanksgiving yesterday because of the kindness of others. Well over 75 baskets of food were given out to the less fortunate families, with the Red Cross being the principal donor. There were many individual donations, in addition to baskets given out by various organizations. The Town is grateful for this public-spiritedness.

Man vs. Machine

At the recent round-table conference sponsored by the Taxpayers' association the Board of Public Works mentioned that it had been considering the purchase of a snow-loader, without having come to any decision one way or the other on the question. The last price the Board had on such a loader was $8500.

There are two factors which must be taken into consideration in such a purchase, and these two factors represent the probable reasons for the Board's hesitation. The first is the fact that no one can count on the weather. That such a purchase would represent a big saving in such huge snowstorms as we had two years ago is indisputable, but so is the fact that such a purchase last year would have been money wasted. Since our recent winter, New England seems to have decided that it has reached the meteorological millennium that California boasts of, but the chances are that we shall see many storms in the near future in which the use of a snow-loader would bring a real saving. In the very heavy storm two years ago seventy men were employed for three days at $4.92 per day, representing a cost of over $1,000. Then there were ten small trucks used for three days at $13.30 per day, or about $400 as a total. The greater part of the $1,000 labor charge would have been eliminated by the use of a snow-loader, and the truck charge would have been brought down considerably since large trucks would have been used and it would have taken far less time to clear the street.

But when you say that the $1,000 labor charge would almost be eliminated, you run into the second factor which makes the Board of Public Works hesitate. When that big storm took place, there was considerable unemployment; if a storm took place today, the same situation would exist. Somehow the unemployed would have to be taken care of, and they might better be shovelling snow than receiving direct aid from the town, especially since it means they will be helping their self-respect. However, there is another side to this question. There is very little ultimate economic gain derived from such work as snow removal or any of the temporary projects which became the fad during the first stages of the depression. Money spent in snow removal is in a sense money thrown away, just as was the money spent in the Curley memorial sidewalks. The unemployed have to be taken care of, it is true, but let's make any saving we can on non-permanent jobs, and spend the money on more lasting work.

Let Them Know

There were many people whose Thanksgiving dinner yesterday was not as joyous as it was a year ago. In 1936 many of them sat down to a bountiful dinner which they had provided for by their own labor; yesterday many of them sat down to dinners given them by relief agencies, and some of them sat down to practically nothing.

"Everybody's out of work," said one of the town officials in close touch with the situation this week. The mills are running far from their capacity; local work funds are exhausted. It's not a pretty picture, but it's one with which every one of those 500 or so men who are now down in Washington filibustering and quibbling should be acquainted.

Recently a local resident wrote to a number of Congressmen and Senators about the matter, and the replies received convinced the writer that it is not a waste of time to make your feelings felt by writing to Washington. One of those who replied, Senator Walsh, expressed a wish that more of his constituents would write about the situation to him.

Why not let them know that you are disturbed at the business recession, that you are convinced that the priming-pump practice of the past few years did nothing to permanently rectify the economic situation? Many of the Congressmen are coming back home next year to ask that they be re-elected, and for the next year at least they will not find it wise to be unmindful of the wishes of those who have the power of removing them from office.

Stamps that Are Serum

Many have been the miracles accomplished by the medical science in the last half-century; today we can say that diphtheria is getting to the point of being an almost rare disease, smallpox is almost a thing of the past, whooping cough will probably be eliminated in the not too distant future because of the work of Dr. Sauer, and great gains have even been made in the fight against such diseases as infantile paralysis, meningitis and cancer.

No such miracle has been accomplished in the fight against tuberculosis. True, the annual toll has been cut down markedly, but there are still 70,000 deaths annually from this cause. In Essex county alone last year there were 146 deaths and 304 new cases of pulmonary tuberculosis. The fight against this disease has been based on just a little piece of gummed paper, a Christmas seal, but the work that that seal does is one of the greatest, most humanitarian efforts the lay world has ever made against disease. Today there are, through the medium of those Christmas seals, 95,198 beds available for Tuberculosis patients, and it can be truthfully said that if there were beds for each serious case of tuberculosis and each case were in its bed, tuberculosis would be held in check instead of being spread.

The Andover committee sent out its seals yesterday. Buy as many of them as you can; they will mean an awful lot to some people less fortunate than you.

Siftings

It's your own fault; you shouldn't have eaten so much.

Six teams this year were unable to find out if the Punchard goal-line looked the same from the front as their own did from the back.

This is the time of year that you wish you'd started a Christ mas club last year.

Our first snowfall came last week-end and its no exaggeration to say that it beats anything we had last winter.

Ballet Will Be Given at Bazaar

Reginald Wallace, well known dance and gym enthusiast, will coach a ballet to be put on by members of St. Catherine's Guild at the Christ church bazaar to be held in the town hall on December 9 and 10. Besides this he will do gymnastic stunts and tap dances himself as part of the entertainment program.

A small charge for admission will be made for the children's entertainment on Friday afternoon of the bazaar and on both evenings to adults. Children accompanied by adults will be admitted free. Those coming in the afternoons may stay on till evening, if a supper ticket is purchased, without paying the evening admission charge.

A supper will be served each evening, preference being given to those who have been busy waiting on tables, and their families who may be present.

The scheme of the bazaar will be a winter scene, and Miss Alice Jenkins who has charge is planning a most attractive line of decoration. Snow and Christmas trees will be in abundance, and the booths will be white, the different articles for sale supplying the color note.

The main attraction for the men will be the men's table where smokes and smoking accessories will be featured. There will be grabs for the youngsters and probably a fortune teller will foretell the future for those who care to indulge in the occult.

Little girls and big will be interested in the doll table where large numbers of dolls, dressed in as many different costumes will be for sale.

Fruit and flowers, vegetables and canned goods will interest the housekeeper, and aprons for kitchen and dressy wear, made by the dozens by Mrs. Ralph Berry's committee, will be displayed.

Children's wear, handkerchiefs of all kinds and prices, candy for the sweet-toothed, baked goods for the Sunday dinner, and gifts of all kinds, including the ever alluring jewelry wanted at this Christmas season, will fill the rest of the hall and while one is urged not to "yield to temptation" in most things, it is hoped that this Christmas bazaar will be so attractive it will be beyond the power of those who come to resist the temptation to buy.

CLAN INITIATES THREE

Three new members were initiated last Friday night at the meeting of the Clan in Fraternal hall. Refreshments were served by the entertainment committee.

Phillips Exeter academy defeated Andover 44 to 4 in a downpour on Saturday. On Thursday evening, November 17, Mrs. Eliza Sadler was seriously injured by a train at the Ballardvale crossing. The Townsman editorializes: "It seems almost criminal negligence on the part of the railroad company in not providing a system of gates and fences. A well signed petition to the Railroad Commissioners calling attention to this matter might have a good effect on the railroad officials." Amputation of Mrs. Sadler's foot may be necessary.

Adventurers' Play Has Fine Cast

Frances McTernan is well cast in the Adventurers' comedy of war—The Path of Glory, to be staged Tuesday Evening, December 7th in the Memorial Auditorium. She is the President's daughter, a young modern of charm and beauty. She expresses her patriotism by volunteer chauffeur service which was very unfortunate for General Ferranzi (George Adams). His faith in this feminine war time chauffeur causes him to wear several bandages in Act II.

Frances McTernan

Miss McTernan gives full value to her role and this particular scene is filled with humorous situations that will delight the audience.

Do you believe in the old saying, "To the victor belong the spoils"? If so, you won't appreciate the tactics of His Excellency, the President of Thalia, (Lyman Cheever) or perhaps you will be converted to his idea, that winning a war is bad for business. It means "crushing taxation, unemployment, a ruinously expensive currency", says he. In a war well lost lies the only salvation for our beloved country.

But King Maximilian of Sardonia, against whom Thalia is carrying on the war, has ideas of his own. He, too, appreciates the advantages of defeat.

Two National leaders with the will to fail! "The Path of Glory" will show how the author works out this unusual situation.

Local Clubs Sponsor "Previews of Progress"

The new school auditorium will look like this when the five and one-half tons of scientific apparatus of the General Motors "Previews of Progress" is in position. The science circus will be free to the public on November 29 and 30.

A glance into the past and more than a glimpse into the future will be afforded when the General Motors "Previews of Progress" is presented at the new school auditorium November 29 and 30.

The dramatic science show will be presented under the auspices of the Andover Teachers club, Parent-Teachers association, and the Andover Service club. All three clubs are cooperating in making the show an outstanding success.

The stage of the auditorium will be converted into a veritable research laboratory, and amazing experiments will be conducted by expert research engineers. Nearly six tons of apparatus will be used in the demonstration.

In retrospect the engineers will trace the story of some of our present day big industries, pointing out how employment has been increased and new conveniences provided through the work done in research laboratories. The development of the telephone, the telegraph, the electric light, and other industries will be narrated, with replicas of early bulbs and instruments to illustrate the progress.

Looking forward into the future, many recent developments will be demonstrated. Man's first "cold light" will be manufactured. Light has always been accompanied by heat, from the time of man's first camp fire, and the heat wastes most of the energy of the illumination. Even in our most modern electric light bulbs about 90 percent of the electricity used is wasted in heat. The newly developed cold light is a chemical mixture, and is not perfected to the point that it can be used commercially, but it is possible that new avenues of progress may be opened by the discovery, and "Previews of Progress" offers to the public a glimpse of the new light.

Scores of scientific "tricks" will be performed. The demonstration is as entertaining as it is educational, and most of amazing of all, is free to the public. Performances begin at eight o'clock, and children must be accompanied by their parents.

Interesting Prints in Gallery Show

An exhibition of Early American Prints opened on Saturday at the Addison Gallery. It will continue to December 19.

Among the prints shown in the present exhibition will be found the first print engraved in the American colonies, so far as we know today, the rude woodcut portrait of Rev. Richard Mather, made in 1670 by John Foster, who established the first printing office in Boston. Only three impressions of this print are known to exist today.

Certainly among the first early American prints in rarity and importance is the Burgis "View of the Colledges in Cambridge, New England, 1776." This is the earliest engraved view of Harvard.

All of the prints of Paul Revere are of the greatest rarity and interest. "The Landing of the British Troops in Boston, 1768" and "The Westerley View of the Colledges in Cambridge" are the most important, with "The Boston Massacre", of Revere's engraved works. The scarce pictures of the events leading up to the Revolution are absorbing in their reflection of contemporary opinion from the patriot's viewpoint.

William Burgis published some of the earliest views of our new great cities. Only in his prints and a very few others of slightly later date can we see how the Boston and New York of the present day looked after the first century of their existence.

"The Battle of Lake George," engraved by Thomas Johnston, is called the first historical print to be engraved in this country. As the work of a native born American and as a subject print it is a notable achievement.

Although almost any of the prints included could be called of the greatest rarity without danger of overstatement, the interest to us of the subjects outweighs the rarity in almost every case. Portraits of notable figures of the early days; naval actions of the abortive French war, 1799-1800; caricature and cartoon all serve to picture in miniature a part of the stream of American life as it progressed through war and peace towards the 19th century.

Lenders to the exhibition at Andover include Mr. Valentine Hollingsworth, Mr. Gordon Abbott, Jr., Mr. R. T. H. Halsey, Mr. Herbert Lawton, The Massachusetts Historical Society, and Goodspeed's Book Shop.

Pledged to Zeta Psi

Frank Kefferstan

Frank J. Kefferstan, 2nd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Kefferstan of Haverhill street, a freshman at Tufts college, has been pledged to Kappa chapter of Zeta Psi, one of the nine national fraternities having chapters on the Tufts campus.

A Washington matron had suddenly become very friendly with all her neighbors. There were two reasons for this state of things. She found that going out to meals saved washing up, and this was a consideration when she had just lost her maid. She also thought she might possibly come across another girl during her visits. "I do wish I could get a good maid," she said, while having tea with the woman who lived next door but one. "Why," replied the hostess, "perhaps Mary would do." "Mary?" asked the other in delight. "Is she leaving you?" "Yes," said the hostess. "She says she wants a situation where there's not so much silver to clean."

Quite often when one is in a hurry to mail a letter, there will be but one stamp and it has no mucilage on its back. In this predicament all necessary is to moisten the mucilage flap on another envelope, run the stamp over the dampened part quickly, then place on the letter to be mailed.

Punchard Closes Undefeated Season, Blanking Johnson 13-0

Punchard high, with its high-scoring captain Ray Lynch sick in bed, a veteran star back Frank Dushame out with a strained tendon, and its husky halfback John Noyes injured at the end of the first quarter, rose to the occasion yesterday and defeated Johnson high 13-0 to present Coach Lovely an undefeated, untied season. Six out of the season's victories were shutouts, and the two scores made against the team came under the heading of breaks.

Walker and Bisset had to bear the brunt of the offensive playing, and they proved more than equal to the job. Lakin paved the way for the first touchdown in the second quarter when he snared a pass from Johnson's Sullivan at about mid-field. Walker and Bisset alternated in rushing to bring it down to the 17, a 19-yard dash by the latter being the most spectacular. Walker passed to Bisset to bring it to the ten, and after a couple of unsuccessful passes, Walker received the ball from center, tossed it back to Bisset who in turn threw it to Ken Gordon in the end-zone. Three Johnson players bounced the ball around before it arrived in Gordon's hands for the touchdown. Walker rushed the extra point.

The second score started when Walker caught a punt on his own forty and returned it to the Johnson 43. Lakin gained eight, and a Bisset to Walker pass brought it to the 15. Another Bisset to Walker pass brought it to the foot line whence Walker scored.

The local line-up: i. e., Jones, Chandler; l. t., Haigh; l. g., Price; c., Miller, Sellars, K. Gordon; r. g., Flaherty, Blamire; r. t., McDonald; r. e., Sanborn; q. b., Bisset; l. h. b., Walker; r. h. b., Noyes, Lakin; f. b., Howe, Towne.

"We'd better make a front-page story of this wedding," remarked the editor.

"Well?" asked the society reporter, in surprise. "They aren't very prominent people."

"That may be," he replied, "but this is the first account of a wedding you have turned in for ages that hasn't had as a last line, 'They will reside with the bride's parents.'"

Punchard Edges Methuen by 7-6

The slender margin of one point was all that stood between Punchard and the ruination of a perfect season last Saturday when Methuen held Punchard to a 7-6 score. Punchard was far and away the better team, but a series of bad breaks prevented their amassing a large score and also accounted for the Methuen score.

Methuen went ahead early in the game when a short pass brought a score after a Punchard fumble on the 18 yard line. That was the only time in the whole game when Methuen was offensively in Punchard's territory. Five times during the remainder of the game Punchard threatened to score only to lose the ball on downs, and one threat was ruined by a fumble. Captain Ray Lynch, out of a sick bed, was still well enough to be the sparkplug of the Punchard outfit, and in the second quarter he heaved pass after pass as shown on the accompanying diagram. Despite the fact that Methuen couldn't seem to gain more than two yards at a time, the Punchard eleven trailed until the last quarter when Lynch scored after a twenty-yard jaunt following a pass from Walker. John Noyes, who played a bang-up game, rushed for the winning point.

Punchard Notes

Last Monday afternoon at 2:30 the members of the Library Club went up to the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library at Phillips Academy. The members were shown some of the priceless documents and books which are kept there. They were also shown the methods used in keeping the catalogues.

The first issue of the Punchard came out Monday morning. The students that wrote and mimeographed the copies deserve much praise for their excellent work. The copies were practically all bought as soon as they appeared.

A novel way to water the hanging-basket, without spilling water on the floor, is to insert a small funnel in the dirt, as near the center of the basket as possible, and hidden by the foliage. Fill this funnel with water every day, and it will soak into the soil gradually.

(Players in the above diagram are represented by the following numbers: 2, Morse (M); 5, Shuter (M); 11, Larochelle (M); 45, Bisset, 46, Walker 50 Lynch, 51 Noyes, 55 Sanborn.)

"I am not very old," says Gail French Peterson, "but I have seen three generations rise from a thousand feet below the earth to above the clouds. The grandfather was a miner, the father a farmer and the son an aviator."

Church Bazaar
Plans Progress

Donations for Christ Church bazaar to be held in the town hall on December 9 and 10, have been collected from an enthusiastic and interested parish during the past few months and only this month's collections and the food and candy to be donated the days of the fair, remain to be assembled.

The list of articles for sale is most interesting and includes a wide variety so that Christmas shopping may be done easily and economically right here in Andover.

A few of the dolls which are to be exhibited were show at the Hilton home on North Main street, and their attractiveness made even the older "girls" wish they were young again so that they might get a doll for Christmas.

Various organizations in the church have devised ways and means of raising money, such as whist parties, suppers and so forth and enthusiasm runs high as the time nears for the event.

On account of the bazaar, the Thanksgiving sale, held annually the Tuesday before Thanksgiving in the parish house, was not held this year, as the bazaar committees are taken from each of the different societies in the church.

"A Good Old Custom"

By ELIZABETH COLE
Acting Publicity Director
National Tuberculosis Association

Old customs, old costumes, pomp and circumstance were glowingly recalled last spring at the elaborate coronation of King George VI. Ditch-digger and banker alike read newspapers and heard radio broadcasts describing details of this ceremony, centuries old.

At this Christmas season another reminder of customs of the olden days is appearing in our own country. The penny Christmas Seal this year depicts a jolly and colorful town crier. Garbed in his warm caped cloak of brown and his three cornered hat he brings to mind one of the most popular and ancient characters of many lands—the man who went from house to house in the small towns and villages to warn of dangers, spread the news, and protect the house holders.

The earliest settlers in all parts of our country brought from their various homelands this custom of having a bell ringer, a town crier, or a night watchman go about at night to guard their homes and warn against Indians or marauding bandits. The Dutch folk who settled New Amsterdam about the middle of the seventeenth century observed the custom of their home country with the ringing of curfew from the church belfry at eight o'clock. This was the signal for all housefraus to cover their fires with ashes; then all the family retired. Cosy and warm in their huge feather beds they had every feeling of safety, for each night through the lanes of the town (now New York City) boldly marched the sturdy "Kloppermann," or rattle watch. This he was called because of the large Kloppe or rattle he carried and whirled loudly at each door. The shrill cracking sound reechoing in the stillness of the night made known he was there to protect them. In his other hand he carried a strong staff, a lighted lantern and a brass bound hourglass by which he told the time. He called out the hours throughout the night and at break of day he would cry, "A fair morning and all's well."

In the Boston town records for 1638 is a notice of the custom of crying lost animals "a stray sow that had been taken in the corne, and often Cryed" but without success in finding its owner. In New England the town crier was paid to make announcements and only those licensed by the selectmen could cry without paying fines. Twopence was paid the "cryer" for each announcement made in the meeting house and sixpence for those "up and down the street."

Noted in Boston was James Wilson for his jovial temperament and his facetious comments. Over the entrance of the Exchange Coffee House building is a hand-bell with the date 1795 on it, an ancient tavern symbol of "Old Wilson." "One can hear now the clang of Wilson's ponderous bell," writes Robert Means Lawrence in "New England Colonial Life," "and the hoarse, thick tones of his voice, as clad in a purple cloak and wearing a cocked hat, he perambulated the streets, crying Sales at Auction and 'Child Lost, 25 cents reward.' He always drew a crowd of people, ready and willing to chaff with him; but they often got more than they bargained for. As when announcing a Fourth of July dinner in Charlestown, certain denizens of that ancient place pestered him with enquiries as to the bill of fare; and elicited the reply that the dinner would be ample with a pig at every plate." Rev. Edward G. Porter in "Rambles in Old Boston" wrote, "Nature had endowed him with a ready wit, a good flow of language, and an imposing presence."

Christmas Seals

They protect your home from Tuberculosis

"Child lost! Four years old. She wore a blue and white calico dress" and other announcements were made by these town criers in New England. They did not combine their duties with those of the night watchman. In 1635 Boston appointed a night watch "from sunset, an hour after the beating of the drumbe." When any lights were observed after ten o'clock, the constables, or night watchmen, were "to inquire discreetly if there was any excuse warranting the noise." They must especially check dancing, drinking, or singing, and admonish the revellers for disturbing the public peace. During this period there were also two bellmen who went about to call out the hours of the night and other interesting information.

The bellman came to New England from England and we have mention of him in the "Diary of Samuel Johnson" by Boswell. He writes, "I staid up till the bellman came by with his bell, just under my window, as I was writing this very line, and cried, 'Past one of the clock and a cold, frosty, windy morning.'"

Some criers waxed poetic and shouted their messages in verse. One of these from "Old Street Cries of London" by Oscar E. Norman was:

List good people all! Past ten o'clock the houre I call.

Now say your prayers and take your rest

With conscience clear and sins confessed.

I bid you all good night! Good night!

The criers went about proclaiming ordinances, summoning the citizens to meetings, and to remind people of such duties as "to have all cattle and hogs out of the fields," or "Have water at your doors for fear of fires."

Only last spring we found a notice in a New York newspaper (Sunday, March 16) telling how the town crier ran through the streets of the ancient village of Haddenham, England, ringing his bell and summoning "all able bodied men to report on the river bank to aid in combating flood waters which threatened to overwhelm one hundred square miles of the richest farm land in Great Britain." The account went on to say how Town Crier George Chapman broke all precedent by donning ordinary clothes instead of his regular crier's uniform to run through the streets calling "Volunteers are urgently needed at the river banks."

In this country the town of Provincetown on Cape Cod, Massachusetts, still has its town crier, one Amos Kubik. He made his first appearance at the time of the tercentenary in 1933 when in a new uniform with spangles, wide belt, large buckles, and black hat he walked down the street ringing his big brass bell and booming out the news of the day. Children and grownups trailed him down the street to hear this sort of an announcement: "Hear ye! Hear ye! The first whale seen in Provincetown for twenty years is on exhibition today behind Matheson's store. Come and see the monster of the deep! Bring the children for a lesson in zoology. Ten cents admission."

This town crier came to New York in 1935 and the Times in a write-up May 2 said of him... "Amos is the only town crier extant and he takes his role seriously. He will cry up anything but wants it written out in advance. His present method is to begin all announcements with three loud 'Hark ye's,' each preceded by two clangs on his dinner bell."... He has learned to refer to himself as a better medium than newspapers, because of something he calls "instant effect." Amos is a far cry from the dignified bellmen of former days.

The curfew, or covering bell because it meant all fires should be covered, was of Norman origin and has been rung in various states in the Union. In 1880 Omaha, Nebraska, passed the "Curfew Law" for children under fifteen years of age, and over 3,000 other cities and towns had this law during the latter part of the nineteenth century. In several places curfew still is rung. Chicago revived the law in 1926 for ten o'clock, but many ridiculous difficulties arose because that was the era of the short short skirts and ladies well over fifteen were mistaken for youngsters—much to the amusement of the latter and the chagrin of the policemen.

But there were no policemen in those early days—no clocks and no newspapers. The town crier was all three in some communities. And he was a most respected and necessary citizen. The rattle or bell is now the policeman's whistle and his staff, later a cane, is his billy of the present day. The megaphone at the college football game has replaced the town crier's bell for announcements and our newspapers bring us all our notices and news. The church bell, as well as the radio, has been substituted for the "12 o'clock and all's well."

It is pleasant, however, to recall the good old customs of our forefathers. In buying and using our Christmas Seals on holiday letters and packages we may know that this friendly Town Crier was chosen for its subject to symbolize protection of our homes from tuberculosis. The house in the background on the seal stands for all homes, and the sturdy old Town Crier is ringing in health for 1938.

Decide Not to Call Town Meeting

B. P. W. Employees, Out of Work As Funds Give Out, May Request Transfer

Some 25 of the regular all-year Board of Public Workers decided this morning not to ask for a special town meeting to provide funds to keep them working for the balance of the year. The men have been idle because most of the appropriations are exhausted.

There is a strong possibility that there will be a transfer from the reserve fund to tide the unemployed over the emergency. A delegation of 20 men met with the selectmen Monday evening to talk over the situation, stating that they wanted work and not welfare. Until this morning they thought of asking for a town meeting, but realizing the necessary delays in such a procedure they decided at least tentatively to forego the meeting. Before a special town meeting could legally be held it would be well into December, and the workers' Christmas funds would not arrive in time.

There are only eleven men now on the staff, consisting of chauffeurs, foremen, etc.

The fog was very thick and the chief officer of the tramp steamer was peering over the side of the bridge. Suddenly, to his intense surprise, he saw a man leaning over a rail a few yards away.

"You confounded fool," he roared, "what on earth do you think your ship is doing? Don't you know I've got the right of way?"

Out of the gloom came a sardonic voice: "This ain't no blinkin' ship, guvner. This 'ere's a light'ouse."

First Fire Engine Fed on New England Rum During Winters

The following account of the first Andover fire engine, which with the construction of the engine house, cost a total of $265, has been submitted by a reader who points at that along about this time of year the pumping apparatus was filled with New England rum to prevent freezing. "There'll be a hot time in the old town tonight" was probably the bucket brigade's theme song in those years.

The article follows:

On Monday, March 4, 1833, the annual town meeting voted to appropriate a sum of money to build an engine house, buy hose, fire buckets, and apparatus for the fire engine that had been accepted by the selectmen. The appropriation was $265.

The engine was a bucket type, 4 inch cylinders, 10 inch stroke. Equipped for service it carried 50 feet of one-inch hose, using 3-8 inch tip, 12 leather buckets, 2 axes, 1 hook, and 2 sperm oil lanterns. This apparatus was in charge of the town fire wardens, who had the same authority, as the present engineers of fire department. It was the duty of the wardens to see that it was kept clean, in order, and ready for use. From the first of May to the fifteenth of October the tank on the engine was to be filled with water. This was of great help to the firemen, as on arriving at a fire, it gave about five to seven minutes pumping while a bucket line was formed to a water supply. During the same period the engine was to be taken out once a month, for trial, to be filled and discharged twice. After the last trial of engine in October, the water was to be drawn off and the pumping apparatus filled with New England rum, which was cheap and very plentiful. This prevented pumps from freezing in cold weather.

The same procedure was followed after each fire in cold weather. This engine was housed in a small building on Essex street near the residence of the late Dr. Conroy. It remained in service up to November 1, 1850 when it was replaced by the Shawsheen engine No. 1, a modern suction engine. This was the beginning of the Andover Fire Department.

"Smart People"

The people of Andover should be commended upon for the satisfying manner in which they support home business.

Unlike many people, they seem to realize that money spent in Andover with Andover merchants is more wisely spent than if given to out of town mail order houses or chain food, hardware or clothing stores.

If they continue to do in the future as they have in the past, Andover will always be the best town in which to live.
